

Executive Summary

Countermine Capabilities for Amphibious Operations

This study was undertaken to assess the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps countermine capabilities for amphibious operations and to provide a "blueprint" of actions to be taken. The Study Panel took full advantage of related prior studies and received extensive briefings from experts in the operational and technological aspects of the subject area.

(The conclusions and recommendations are classified.)